PRICE TWO CENTS

REQUEST FOR BED IN JAIL GRANTED

Jesse Leslie Appears at Police Station While Officers are Searching for Him.

SERIES OF EVENTS REPORTED

Police Busy Locating Bicycle, Horse and Buggy and Six Chickens Reported Missing.

"Will you give me a bed and let me spend the night here?" This was the request that was made by a young man of Policeman Sensback when he was on office duty at the police station about 11:30 o'clock Wednesday night.

"Whad'u say?" inquired the surprised officer. But without waiting for the request to be repeated he told the young man that he would be glad to accommodate him and forthwith led him to a cell. The man making the request was Jesse Leslie. He was not aware of the fact—but the officer knew—that at that particular moment the other members of the night force were conducting a search for him so Policeman Sensback had reason to be surprised that the young man should voluntarily appear at the jail. When the other policemen reported at the station later that they were close on Leslie's trail but had not been able to locate him, Policeman Sensback settled back in his chair and calmly stated that the man was safely in cell No. 1.

The arrest of Leslie was the climax of a series of events which started early Wednesday night, but it was not until a short time before he came to the jail that the police knew that he was implicated in all of them. However, by the time they had completed their investigations they had wound a net around Leslie and when he was questioned he is said to have admitted his guilt.

The first event came to the attention of the police when R. A. Metcalf telephoned the police station that his bicycle which he had left standing in front of the Gem restaurant had disappeared and he believed it had been stolen. The report was filed about 6:45 o'clock. Officers Russell and Fink responded and were informed that Leslie had been seen riding south on Indianapolis avenue on a wheel which corresponded to the one reported missing. The trail, however, was obscure as few people had noticed the bicycle and its rider.

More than an hour later, while the police were still trying to locate the bicycle, James Deppert, of Redding township, came to the police station and said that his horse and buggy which had been hitched at Second and Ewing streets, had disappeared. The officers then set out to find the stolen rig. After the search was continued for some time the officers located the horse and buggy near the Blish Mills. The horse had evidently been driven very hard.

Soon after the horse was found Leonard Brooks, of Glenlawn, reported to the police that he had

BIG CROWD EXPECTED TO HEAR TEMPERANCE SPEAKER

J. Frank Hanly will Give Address at First Baptist Church at 8 O'clock Tonight.

J. Frank Hanly, former Governor of Indiana, will speak at the First Baptist church tonight at 8 o'clock and it is expected that a big crowd will be present to hear his message. He is sent out on the present speaking campaign by the Flying Squadron Foundation of which he is president. He deals with the liquor question in a forceful manner discussing all phases of it from the practical, everyday standpoint. Mr. Hanly is well known here as one of Indiana's most eloquent speakers and his addresses on the temperance problems are characterized by a deep earnestness and sincerity of purpose. Local temperance workers are much interested in the meeting tonight. No admission will be charged to the lecture.

CASTS ANNOUNCED FOR FOUR PLAYS

Will be Presented January 22 at High School by Department of Dramatic Art.

STUDENTS WILL TAKE PARTS

"County Chairman," "Heart's Haven," "Visions From Riley" and "Doc Horne" in the List.

Announcement was made today of the casts for the four plays to be given on January 22 at the high school by the department of dramatic art which is conducted in connection with the English course. Much interest is manifested by the high school student body in the presentation of the four plays. The plays to be presented are the "County Chairman," "Heart's Haven," "Visions from Riley," and "Doc Horne." All of them will be given in condensed form, it is announced.

Arthur J. Beriault, of Indianapolis, who has directed a number of home talent productions, has charge of the four plays and is coaching the members of the casts. He comes here each week to hear rehearsals and to offer suggestions. He has been giving some instruction in the department of dramatic art which is conducted in the local high school in connection with the English classes. The longest play is that of the "County Chairman," the cast for which follows:

Hon. Jim Hackler, Kenneth McCurdy, Tillford Wheeler, Oscar Shepard, Elias Rigby, Virgil Snow, Riley Cleaver, Jess Hoover, Miss Prewitt, Marie Niecher, Jupiter Pettaway, Horace Seelinger, Sassafras Livingston, Harold Wells, Jefferson Briscoe, John Connally, Uncle Eek Millbury, Malcolm Rittenhouse, Vane Jimmison, Kenneth Greenman, Joe Whittaker, Hal Branaman, Cal Barcas, Howard Kaufman, Chub Tolliver, Paul Becker, Lucy Rigby, Veva Paul, Mrs. Elias, Helen Brown, Mrs. Jefferson Briscoe, Flossie Collins, Lorene Atkins, Margaret McCord, Chick Elzey, Genevieve Brocker, Tilly, Madge Linke, Clara, Edna Dixon.

The cast for "Heart's Haven" is announced as follows:

The Man, Lee Miller, Hugh, Fae Patrick, Tryllis, Iris Cox, Father Rapp, Mansil Hughes.

The following "Visions From Riley" will be presented:

Cranny, The Ole Swinmin Hole, The Runaway Boy.

A Youthful Affair.

Out to Old Aunt Mary's.

The characters in "Doc Horne" will be taken by the following students:

Doe Horne, Francis Stunkle, The Lightning Dentist, Leon Gugel, An Officer, Edric Cordes, A Book Agent, Arthur Wilde, A Red Headed Boy, Frank Weller.

W. C. T. U. WILL CIRCULATE PROHIBITION PETITIONS

Members of Various Sunday Schools of City Will be Given Opportunity to Sign Them.

Petitions urging state-wide prohibition will be circulated by the local W. C. T. U. among the Sunday Schools of the city and the documents will then be forwarded to Senator Edward P. Elsner and Representative Joseph Robertson, Jackson county's representatives in the state legislature. A plea for national prohibition is also included in the text of the petitions. All members of the various Sunday Schools are asked to sign the petitions. Several measures aiming at state wide prohibition and other anti-liquor legislation are expected to be introduced during the present session of the legislature and the temperance forces are striving to wage the most effective and aggressive campaign possible for their cause.

ALUMNI SECRETARY OF I. U. WILL GIVE ADDRESS

Ralph V. Sollitt Will be Principal Speaker at Founders' Day Banquet Here Friday.

Ralph V. Sollitt, Alumni Secretary of Indiana University, and the university's best booster, has sent word that he will be here in person to address the Foundation Day meeting at the New Lynn on Friday evening. This honor comes to Jackson county because of the large and enthusiastic local alumni body.

All graduates, former students and friends of the university are invited to attend this celebration which marks the ninety-seventh birthday anniversary. The hour set for the banquet is 8 o'clock, and the celebration will continue with speeches, songs and the reading of messages of particular interest concerning the Alma Mater.

The variety of the program, the presence of Mr. Sollitt, who as a "pep-instiller" has no equal, and the general interest which Jackson county feels in the state university are sufficient to insure an excellent attendance and the most enthusiastic celebration which the county has ever held.

NEW OFFICE BUILDING WILL BE ERECTED AT ONCE

Seymour Planing Mill Co. Arranges for Improved Facilities for Handling Its Growing Business.

The Seymour Planing Mill Co. is preparing to erect a new up-to-date office building and storage room in connection with their plant on South Chestnut street. Workmen are busy now tearing down the old building to make room for the new one. The new building will stand eight or ten feet back from the side walk, and will be 24x64 feet in size. It will be resided with ship lap and covered with stone-faced iron. The building will have two stories. The office will be located in the front of the first floor, and the rear together with all of the second floor will be used for storage room. The building will be pushed as rapidly as possible so that it will be ready for spring stock which will be arriving in a few weeks.

The Seymour Planing Mill Co. has been handling a successful business. In addition to the lumber and milling business it handles a considerable line of hardware. The business has grown steadily and it is recognized as one of the substantial industries of our city.

Don't forget the Flying Squadron meeting at the First Baptist church Thursday night.

EQUAL SUFFRAGE AIM OF NEW BILL

Votes for Women by Constitutional Amendment Provided in Senate Measure.

PROHIBITION IS UP AGAIN

Senator Negley Offers Bill Providing Easier Method of Impeaching Officials.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, January 11—Votes for women by a constitutional amendment is provided for in a resolution introduced by Senator Beardsley of Elkhart, today. The bill would also prevent foreigners from voting until they have produced their third papers.

Senator Porter of Washington introduced a resolution providing for prohibition by constitutional amendment. This is not the "dry" federation bill which did not come up to day as expected.

Senator Elsner today introduced a bill in the senate providing that in cases of trespass in civil actions that trespass be considered as intentional.

Senator Negley of Indianapolis introduced the administration bill providing for easier means of impeaching public officials.

The bill provides that any county, township or municipal officer or justice of the peace may be removed by the Circuit Court for neglect or refusal to perform duties; obstruction to administration of public affairs; misconduct in office; corruption, extortion, gambling, felony or intoxication.

Complaint must be made by five electors to the prosecuting attorney or attorney general. If the officer is removed, the governor shall appoint his successor to fill the unexpired term.

The house held a brief session today during which the bill appropriating $100,000 for the legislative session's expenses was passed under suspension of rules.

Twenty bills were introduced, the most important measure providing for the creating of a highway commission fathered by Representative Hartke of Jasper. It is not the administration bill which will be presented later.

SUFFRAGE SENTINELS HAVE COLD DAY FOR PICKET DUTY

Congressional Union Officials Organize Coffee and Doughnut Squads for the Banner Holders.

By United Press.

January 11—Coffee and doughnut squads were organized today by congressional union officials to aid the suffrage sentinels who today continued their chilly task of picketing the White House. The sentinels marched out from the Congressional Union barracks within sight of the White House and at 10 o'clock again took up their posts at the east and west gates with seven-foot banners flapping and whipping in the January gale.

Major Pullman, police chief, announced that he would not interfere with them so long as they went no further than they did yesterday.

PREMIER DEMANDS PEACE SECURITY

Lloyd George Stirs Thousands of Britons to High Enthusiasm in Guild Hall Speech.

SEES VICTORY DURING YEAR

Senator Negley Offers Bill Providing Easier Method of Impeaching Officials.

By United Press.

London, January 11—Premier Lloyd George today told cheering thousands that the allies had reached the grim resolution to rid the world of "unspeakable despotism" in an address in Guild Hall.

"With proper support," he declared our gallant armies will cleave the road to victory during 1917.

"The best security of peace for the future will come when nations are banded together to punish the first peace breaker.

"We did not reject peace terms. No terms were offered. We were only offered a trap baited with fine words.

"We want peace but we want a real one. War is preferable to Prussian domination of Europe. The allies have made that clear in their reply to Germany and clearer still in their reply to the United States."

ALLIES REPLY TO WILSON'S NOTE IS BEFORE LANSING

Officials Hint That Language in Communication is "Clear and Strong."

By United Press.

Washington, January 11—Couched in what officials hint is "clear, strong language," the allied reply to President Wilson's note to belligerents reached here today with an unmistakable definition of what the allies are fighting for. The entente answer reached the state department shortly before noon today. The message was decoded and translated and laid before Secretary Lansing.

SOCIALISTS INITIATE MOVE TO END THE WAR

Messages Flashed to Fourteen Nations Suggesting Conference on June 31, 1917.

By United Press.

Chicago, January 11—The national executive committee of the Socialist Party of America today made a new move to end the world war. By cable and wireless messages were flashed to fourteen nations requesting that an international Socialist congress be called June 31, 1917, to initiate an immediate and lasting peace.

THAW ATTEMPTS SUICIDE BY SLASHING HIS THROAT

Slayer of Stanford White Tries to Kill Himself as Detectives Enter His Rooms.

By United Press.

Philadelphia, January 11—Harry K. Thaw, slayer of Stanford White and now wanted in New York to answer to an indictment that he flogged Frederick Gump, cut his throat in a West Philadelphia apartment this afternoon.

Thaw also slashed his wrist. Physicians said he had slight chance of recovery. Thaw slashed himself as detectives were bursting into the room to arrest him on the warrant issued in New York. He had terribly mutilated himself with a razor.

Thaw's sensational attempt at suicide brought to a close a nationwide search for him following his indictment on charge of kidnapping and flogging nineteen-year-old Frederick Gump, of Kansas City, on Christmas Day in Thaw's rooms in Philadelphia.

BRITISH WIN ON TIGRIS

Storm 1,000 Yards Trenches
at Kut-El-Amara.

RUSS ACTIVE IN RIGA REGION

German Base at Mitzau Supposed to Be Objective of Big Offensive Movement of Muscovites—Germans Push on to Pontzin.

London, Jan. 11.—The region of Kut-El-Amara on the Tigris river, the scene of the former British fiasco, brisk fighting has been resumed, and Turkish trenches on a front of 1,000 yards northeast of the town have been captured, according to the British official report. The text of the announcement reads:

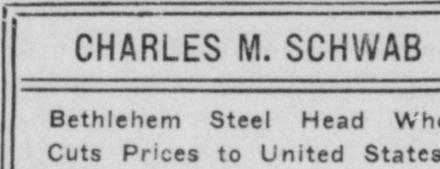

"Mesopotamia: The Indian division with great dash, attacked and captured the enemy's trenches on a front of 1,000 yards in the bend of the Tigris on the northeast of Kut-El-Amara. Seven officers and 150 men were captured in the course of the operations. The enemy's trenches at Sanniyat were bombarded on the same day and his lines were successfully raided in three places."

Von Mackensen's drive against the Russians in northern Roumania continues, gaining new ground in the latest advance toward the railway town of Pantzin, the loss of which would interfere seriously with the transportation of Russian troops to the immediate front.

While losing ground in Roumania, the Russians are gathering in great strength for a new offensive in the Riga region, where the German base at Mitzau is the supposed objective. The new drive, if successful, would not only necessitate the rushing of reinforcements from German divisions on other fronts, but the loss of Mitzau would compel a German retirement of considerable magnitude.

At last accounts the Teutonic forces in Roumania were only some five miles from Pantzin, the capture of which would interfere seriously with the movement of Russian troops and supplies to the railway running northwest through Oena and virtually paralleling the Moldavian frontier line.

While the German headquarters statement only claims the gaining of a footing on the opposite bank of the Putna immediately north of Fokshani, the Russians have been cleared entirely from the vicinity of that stream toward the southeast and have been forced to retreat back of the Sereth

CODY'S BODY TO LIE IN STATE

Colorado to Honor Memory of "Buffalo Bill."

NOTED SCOUT ENDS TRAIL

Burial of Plainsman Will Probably Not Take Place Until May 30—Federal Troops to Escort Remains to State Capitol.

Denver, Col., Jan. 11.—For four hours Sunday the body of Colonel William F. Cody (Buffalo Bill), will lie in state in the capitol as a measure of appreciation to what Colorado and the west owed to the noted scout.

Funeral services for the noted scout are to be held Sunday afternoon when the body will be placed in a receiving vault in a local cemetery, but the burial will not take place until next spring, probably Memorial day, when the body of one of the nation's most picturesque characters will be interred in a tomb hewn from the rock at the top of Lookout mountain near this city. Plans already are afoot for the erection of a suitable monument at this final resting place.

The funeral services Sunday are to be held in the Elks home in charge of the Denver lodge of Elks. In accordance with the wish of the dying scout, however, all the societies to which he belonged are to have a part in his funeral, including the Grand Army of the Republic, the Pioneer Society of Colorado and the Cowboys Rangers of Denver. The Masons will have charge of the interment of the body in its mountain tomb.

Arrangements were made at a conference for the body to lie in state in the capitol Sunday morning from 8 o'clock to noon. Leaders of both houses of the legislature, now in session, attended the conference. While the body lies at the capitol a guard of honor will be on duty.

Federal troops will escort the body from the capitol to the Elks home for the services, according to plans and other federal troops are expected to march in the funeral cortège.

Telegrams of condolence in large numbers have been pouring into the home of the sister here, where Colonel Cody had been staying for the last few days. They include messages from friends throughout the country.

One from President Wilson and others from General Nelson A. Miles and General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff were among the number.

Colonel Cody was born in Scott county, Iowa, Feb. 26, 1846. His ancestral stock was Spanish, English and Irish. His parents moved west and took up a claim near Leavenworth, Kas., then a frontier Indian post, when Cody was five years old. At ten years he found himself the head of the family, owing to the death of his father, who was killed in an encounter growing out of a dispute over the negro slave question.

Young Cody's first employment was as a courier between the freight wagons on trains operated between the Missouri river and the Rocky mountains. In turn he became wagon master, trapper, hunter, pony express rider and stagecoach driver, all giving a varied experience in a school, the graduation from which left the scholar an adept in every possible line of frontier activity.

INDIANA MEN FOR WEBB BILL

Write Watson, Urging Passage of Bill Permitting Combinations.

Washington, Jan. 11.—A number of Indiana business men have written to Senator Watson strongly urging the passage of the Webb bill to permit combinations of American business concerns to engage in foreign trade.

In the opinion of these men concerted action on the part of American concerns will be necessary to compete with foreign nations after the war. They particularly referred to the South American trade, where they feel competition will be keenest.

The Webb bill has passed the house and is now in the senate, where several hearings have been held on it. It is believed that the bill will pass but there is some opposition to it.

STATE DEPARTMENT ACTS

Death of Luis D'Antin in Mexico Matter for Investigation.

Washington, Jan. 11.—On request of Mrs. Luis D'Antin, widow of Luis D'Antin, the American who suddenly died at San Luis Potosi on his way to Queretaro with Mexican Ambassador Arendondo, the state department ordered an investigation of the circumstances attending his death.

One message was sent to the American representative in Mexico City and another to the consul at San Luis Potosi.

END ARGUMENTS ON ADAMSON LAW

Decision in Rail Case Expected Feb. 26.

WAGE FIXING AT STAKE

Pending Outcome, the Effectiveness of Eight-Hour Day and All Litigation is Suspended by Agreement Between Railroads and Government

Washington, Jan. 11.—The final arguments in the test case attacking the constitutionality of the Adamson act were heard by the supreme court with members of the court continuing to display their extraordinary interest by frequent questioning of counsel.

It is expected that a decision will be rendered within a few weeks, although summary action on the important issues is not deemed probable. Feb. 26 has been mentioned as the possible date for the decision, as the court reconvenes that day after recess of three weeks to prepare opinions.

Meanwhile, the effectiveness of the eight-hour standard day and all litigation is suspended by agreement between the railroads and the department of justice, with accounts being kept of additional wages due under the new law.

Three days of arguments were concluded before the hearing was concluded. The closing address was made in support of the law by Frank Hagerman of Kansas City, Mo., special assistant to the attorney general who contended vigorously that congress has authority to regulate railroad employees' wages in exercising its constitutional power over interstate commerce.

Attorney-General Gregory, several senators and many railroad men other lawyers followed the proceedings.

Maintaining power of congress to pass the law, Mr. Hagerman said it can be operated temporarily like the interstate commerce commission temporarily regulates rates.

"Is there any law of that kind?" asked Justice McKenna.

"It's done by the interstate commission in daily practice," said Mr. Hagerman.

"There's no claim that this law is confiscatory," the attorney continued. "Congress acted in its discretion, a discretion with which the judiciary has no power to interfere."

"Oh, no one claims that the court suggest its discretion for that of congress," interrupted Chief Justice White.

When Mr. Hagerman said the legal presumption—all presumptions—are in favor of validity of an act of congress, the chief justice interjected:

"I don't believe it means to go that far—not all presumptions, but every reasonable presumption."

The federal employers' liability hours of service, pilothole and other laws were cited by Mr. Hagerman as precedents of the attention of congress to contracts of employment.

That railroad workers are just as much a part of transportation as cars or locomotives was contended by Mr. Hagerman, saying:

"If this court can say that the wage of the man who makes possible the movement of trains has no real or substantial relation to commerce, then my words are without effect. The pay of the men has a direct bearing on effectuality of transportation."

MANY SNAGS ARE STRUCK

New Austrian Cabinet Unable to Get Parties Into Agreement.

Berlin (via London), Jan. 11.—A dispatch to the Tageblatt from Vienna says the Austrian cabinet, headed by Count Clam-Martinic, which it had been expected would be able to solve most of the existing problems, appears to be striking snags which day by day grow more difficult to overcome.

Czech parties have suddenly ceased to demonstrate the conciliatory and obliging attitude of confidence which was counted on materially to help in the settling of many problems.

The Christian Socialists also, says the Tageblatt correspondent, are holding absolutely aloof, and refuse to commit themselves to the government.

CORNS PEEL RIGHT OFF WITH "GETS-IT"

2 Drops, and the Corn is a "Goner!"

When you've got to walk on the sides of your shoe to get away from those awful corn-pains, there's only one common-sense thing to do.

Use "Gets-It!" Your Corn Won't Swell, Loosen and Peel Off!

Put 2 or 3 drops of "Gets-It" on the corn right away. Pain and inflammation will disappear. The corn will begin to shrivel from that instant and it loosens and falls right off.

There's no other corn-remover in the world that acts like "Gets-It."

No, not even the ones made of corn-remover since "Gets-It" was born. Don't forget that fact "Gets-It" does away forever with the use of salves that irritate, bandages that make a bundle of your toe, plaster that half do the work, knives and scissors that draw blood.

"Gets-It" is no more digging or cutting.

"Gets-It" is sold everywhere, 25c a bottle or sent on receipt of price by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago, Ill.

DETECTIVES UNABLE TO LOCATE THAW

Charged With Kidnapping and Assailing Boy.

New York, Jan. 11.—Harry K. Thaw, indicted here on a charge of kidnapping and assaulting nineteen-year-old Fred Gump Jr., of Kansas City, Mo., has not been located by the district attorney and his corps of detectives who have been searching for him, although directly or indirectly the police of all cities have received notice that he is wanted here.

Unofficially the belief was expressed at the prosecutor's office that Thaw had made his way to his home in Pittsburgh, and there, under protection of his family, undoubtedly was being advised by competent counsel as to what course to pursue.

The authorities here made detailed explanations as to how it happened that he slipped through their fingers when they were "hot on his trail" both here and in Philadelphia shortly before and after the indictment was found against him.

His escape was explained by the fact, they said, that since he was so well known they gave their chief attention to arresting the man known to them as George O'Byrnes, indicted jointly with Thaw on the kidnapping count.

While waiting for an opportunity to catch O'Byrnes, Thaw escaped.

Shortly afterward a man answering the description of the Gump boy had given of Thaw's companion, appeared at Thaw's Philadelphia hotel and was arrested on the assumption that he was O'Byrnes. He proved, however, to be Oliver Brower, formerly of Utica, N. Y., also associated with Thaw, but against whom there was no indictment.

Emma Goldman's Aid Held.

OUR BUSINESS MEN ASK FOR PUBLIC CO-OPERATION

Leaders Point Out Partnership Between Capital and Labor.

SAY INTERESTS ARE MUTUAL

Our Future Prosperity Depends on a Better Understanding and More Practical Application of Get-Together Spirit in Industry—Must Eliminate Trouble-Breeders and Agitators.

A better public understanding and appreciation of the needs and problems of our American industries is conceded on every side to be one of the important national requirements for the development of our future industrial prosperity. Few people seem to understand that the majority of our business men are fair minded, reasonable beings, legitimately engaged in the development of our economic resources.

In the opinion of our business leaders this misunderstanding leads the public, through the legislators, into thoughtless and unnecessary acts of reprisal against all branches of industry, which are often injurious to the best interests of their own community. To cure this lamentable condition it is first essential that a closer degree of co-operative action for the common good be established between employees and employers. The first step in this direction is to eliminate the selfish, destructive agitator. This happy event would greatly facilitate a general get together spirit among employers and workers.

The Work That Men Do.

The nation is confronted with more work than ever before—ships to build, factories to enlarge, railways to complete, new foreign business to be attracted and help to be extended to the unfortunate on the other side. There are about 30,000,000 men at work; if they work ten hours a day that is 300,000,000 hours a day or 96,000,000,000 hours a year. If they work eight hours it is 74,880,000,000, or a difference of 18,720,000,000 hours a year. At eight hours a day this means that about 7,400,000 more men must be employed to do the work that could be done by the 30,000,000, and where are they to come from?

During the past year there has been a unified and standardized banking currency system tried and not found wanting. But there are yet other steps to be taken before the ideal of economic unit is worked out.

There are 662,000 stockholders of railroads in the United States. A large proportion of them depend on the earnings of the carriers for a meager income. Many of these stockholders have less than $1,000 a year income, and they are unable to earn more, being elderly persons or women. Thousands of them are former employees of the railroads who depend upon their stock dividends to pay their rent and their grocery bills.

Ladies and Capital Are Partners.

The manufactured output of the United States amounts to $28,000,000,000 in value per annum. This is three times the amount of the yearly output of the ranches, farms, orchards and gardens; it is a dozen times the output of the mines; it is larger than the combined manufactures of any two foreign nations. Labor received, as its share of the fruits of industry, wages amounting almost to seven billion dollars in the single year of 1914. Does not this prove that the interests of employees are joint with those who employ them and that a real partnership exists?

Today there are over 100,000,000 people in the land who must be fed, clothed, sheltered, kept warm and many of whom travel for health, pleasure and business. The railway systems are in many places overtaxed in doing this work.

What will be the conditions when there are 150,000,000 people to be served?

This means an addition of at least 50 per cent to the number of tons of freight moved one mile and the number of passengers moved one mile.

There was a total mileage of 41,988 in the hands of receivers in 1915, the total capitalization of which was $2,264,000,000. In that year alone 20,143 miles of road went into the hands of receivers, and these roads had a total capitalization of $1,070,808,628. This compares with 4,222 miles in 1914 with a total capitalization of $199,571,446, in receivers' hands. This is not a healthy condition; it is a malady that affects directly and indirectly every one in the country.

Railways do not belong to a few rich men or bankers. There are at least 1,500,000 owners of the securities of American railways. There are 1,800,000 men approximately employed in the railway service. The insurance companies have $1,500,000,000 invested in railway securities representing 30,000,000 policy holders; savings banks have $800,000,000 invested in which banks there are 11,000,000 depositors.

From 1909 to 1913 the States enacted 60,001 and congress enacted 2,013 new laws which involved the consideration of more than one-half million legislative propositions, or an annual production of over 12,000 new laws to be assimilated by the business world.

OVERTAXING INDUSTRY.

Taxes are not alone the burden of the rich. They inevitably descend along the scale and are generally shared in some proportion by all. When excessive burdens of taxation emphasize the competitive disadvantages of any community for any branch or class of business that community will invariably suffer a decrease in the industrial development and prosperity of all within its boundaries.

In many sections of the country reports show that industry is often subjected to continuous and unreasonable burdens of taxes in one form or another. This condition is due in part at least to a mistaken public attitude toward industrial operations or a prejudiced, ignorant or indifferent opinion on the part of public officers and politicians. The history of industrial communities where such burdens are imposed, however, is the best evidence of whether such a policy pays anybody.

Two manufacturers in similar lines of business, one operating a plant in Massachusetts and the other located in Connecticut, were recently comparing notes. They discovered that for every $100 in taxes which the Connecticut plant pays per annum the Massachusetts plant was paying $1,000, or ten times as much. The answer to this situation is that Massachusetts has been falling behind in the percentage of growth as an industrial state compared with some of her neighboring communities where industry is not so often aimed at by burdensome, unnecessary and unreasonable laws.

The following open letter by J. W. Powell, president of the Fore River (Mass.) Shipbuilding Corporation, addressed to the employees of that company in a recent issue of their "family magazine," The Fore River Log, presents in a fair way the average business man's view on excessive taxation of industrial plants:

"What is good for Fore River is good for Quincy, and what is good for Quincy is good for Fore River.

"The officers and employees of this company and their families make up more than a quarter of the population of the city. Their interests are the same as the interest of Quincy and of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation.

"This company's business is building ships, which brings us into competition with companies building ships in other States. Anything that Fore River must do in this community that other shipbuilding companies do not have to do in their cities will, in the long run hurt us.

"Today there are more ships to be built than there are yards to build them. When the war is over there will be more shipyards than there are ships to build. Then the yard that builds the cheapest will take the contracts, and the yard whose costs are highest will discharge its men.

"The other big shipyards do not pay big taxes. Some of them pay no taxes at all. If you own a house and rent it you add your taxes into the rent. If you rent a house you pay the taxes when you pay your rent, so the company must add its taxes when it sells a ship.

"Such an assessment and such taxes as have been levied against this company this year in Quincy, which is as much as the combined cost of its new hospital and club, hurt it and will hurt you. It is not fair to increase this company's assessment 90 per cent and to increase its taxes nearly 50 per cent this year as against a year ago.

"You know that a great part of the company's money spent in improvements has been spent to make Fore River a better place to work. There are still many departments needing new buildings, new washrooms, new locker rooms, and many other improvements.

I Am The Unimproved Highway.

(By H. G. Andrews, in the William Penn Highway Bulletin, Harrisburg, Penn. Copyright, 1916, by the William Penn Highway Association)

I am the unimproved highway.
My name is Mud!

The foot that pattered in primeval slime gave me birth.

Unchanged while the ages passed, I have endured. Time has but served to increase my infinite variety. Earth born, and without a soul, yet have I lived. From the beginning have I been man's enemy.

A dust-colored python am I, stretching my length across the hills, waiting my time to crush endeavor. I have snared caravans that left bleaching bones in lands now desert. Empires have fallen because of me. I have turned victories into routs; I have trapped mighty leaders and have crushed armies.

I am without faith; and those who trust me I deceive.

Today I am fair to look upon; tomorrow a steaming bog.

I add Difficulty to Distance.

With Isolation do I conspire to unjoin the endeavors of man. I tug at the wheels of the grain cart, that bread may be dear. I hamper those who would feed the race. I am an enemy of church and school. I mire the healer on his rounds and delay the coming that little ones may die.

I am a disrupter of Home. I speed the first-born to the cities when I am fair to see; and when he would return I face him with my forbidding depths. I minister to Bitterness; and lay a tax on all the world. There is none who lives who does not pay me tribute.

When man ploughed with a crooked stick I was there. When the ancients covered me with stones I slipped away to other lands. I am the oldest lie that lives today. Men count me cheap. I know the price they pay who count me so.

I am the unimproved highway.

My name is Mud!

GERMAN RAIDER SUNK. RUMOR

Was Caught by British Cruiser, New York Hears.

New York, Jan. 11.—Persistent reports that a German raider was met in the Atlantic and sunk by a British cruiser were current in well informed steamship circles. Details were lacking, as is the identity of the vessels engaged and the location of the encounter.

Coupled with these reports was a statement by the Lamport & Holt line, owners of the overdue steamship Voltaire, that rumors had come to them that their vessel was in one of the ports of Bermuda. The officers of the line said they had heard that the Voltaire, after capture by a German raider, had been recaptured and taken to Bermuda, but that their information was unofficial.

The Voltaire was last reported to have left Liverpool on Nov. 28 for New York.

TO USE ROUMANIAN GRAIN

Austria Well Supplied by Captured Product, Says Food Dictator.

Amsterdam (via London), Jan. 11.—The food situation in Germany, Austria and Hungary was summed up as follows by Adolf von Batocki, head of the German food regulation board in an interview with Swedish journalists as quoted in a dispatch from Berlin:

While there never has been any question of food difficulties in Hungary, Austria's grain harvest possibly was not quite sufficient to last until the new harvest, and Germany, therefore, contemplated delivery of some hundred thousand tons of grain to Austria. But now Austria's share of the Roumanian supplies enables her to dispense with the contributions from Germany."

MANY NEW MEMBERS.

Dr. F. A. Steele Very Successful at Indianapolis M. E. Church.

G. H. Anderson is in receipt of a letter from the Rev. F. A. Steele, formerly superintendent of the Seymour district, stating that he is well pleased with his work as pastor of the East Tenth street M. E. church, Indianapolis. He was assigned to the pastorate of that church at the last Indiana Conference held at Franklin.

Referring to the last Sunday in December, the Rev. Mr. Steele wrote that he had received a total of fifty-four new members that day. All but two were received at the morning service hour. With the additions that Sunday he has received a total of seventy-five new members during the three months he has served as pastor of the church. He said that 175 people remained for the watch service on New Year's eve. He is preparing to open a revival on January 14 and cottage meetings are being held in preparation for the special services. The Rev. Mr. Steele stated that he and Mrs. Steele have moved to the comfortable parsonage and are delighted with their work.

found a box of chickens on his porch and wanted to know what disposition to make of them. From that time until Leslie appeared at the jail, Officers Russell and Fink began to pick up small clews which apparently implicated Leslie. The policemen trailed the party who had left the Deppert rig at the Blish Mills to the Brooks home. Several times they were only a few minutes back of Leslie and had they known that he was intending to do the unexpected thing and ask for a bed at the jail they would have been saved a long, tiresome walk over the city.

When confronted with the evidence which the officers had worked up against Leslie, he admitted that he had taken the wheel, but did not intend to steal it. He said that he wanted to go to the home of his sister, Mrs. August Hagan, one and one-half miles southwest of the city and had tried to make the trip on the wheel but was unable to do so on account of the heavy roads. He said that he had thrown the wheel into a ditch about half a mile from the city and had returned here on foot. Officers Russell, Fink and Ruddick later located the bicycle at the place where Leslie said he had put it.

Leslie then told the police that after he returned to the city he found the Deppert rig at the hitch rack and took it so he could drive to his sister's home. He denied that he had intended to steal it. He said that he took the chickens from his sister's farm and brought them to the home of Elmer Brooks and then abandoned the rig. The chickens were also recovered and are being held at the police station, pending the outcome of the case. Leslie denied that there was anyone implicated with him in any of the transactions of the night. He said that he had told Elmer Brooks that he would get some chickens from the Hagan farm and that they would sell them and make a trip to Cincinnati with the money. Brooks said that the plan had been discussed but that he did not know the chickens were to be taken without Hagan's consent. Leslie corroborated Brooks' statement, according to the police. Leonard Brooks apparently knew nothing of the agreement and

DEFENDANT QUESTIONS JURISDICTION OF COURT

Change of Venue is Taken in Surety of Peace Proceeding Against Robt. Woodard.

After Mayor Ross decided that the mayor's court has jurisdiction in surety of peace proceedings when the question was raised by Seba A. Barnes, attorney for Robert Woodard, defendant in such an action filed by Edwin Doane, Mr. Barnes filed a motion for a change of venue. No attempt was made to reach an agreement as to the judge after the motion was filed this afternoon. The case was set for hearing for 2 o'clock and as the defendant had called for a jury more than twenty men were present in response to summons.

Attorney Barnes argued that such cases could only originate in a justice of peace court, and Mayor Ross held that the mayor's court and the justice of peace court were on a par in such cases.

The action against Woodard was filed by Doane when the former is alleged to have entered his house Monday night. Woodard claimed that he wanted to talk to Doane and went to his home for that purpose.

Injured in Fall.

Dr. D. L. Prall is wearing his left arm in a sling as a result of a fall yesterday. He has rented the room formerly occupied by the Elks and when he entered the room Wednesday afternoon found that smoke and soot from a stove on the second floor were coming through an opening in the chimney. He mounted a step ladder to withdraw a thimble from another flue hole which was not used, intending to change it, and lost his balance. He fell head foremost and sustained a deep gash over his left eye and a severely wrenched shoulder.

NEW ISSUE OF CIVIL WAR
$1 and $2 BILLS TO BE MADE

Demand for Paper Currency is Greater Than Ever Before, Department Says.

Washington, January 11—A new issue of the $1 and $2 greenbacks of civil war days, discontinued more than thirty years ago, will be put into circulation, probably about Feb. 1, displacing similar United States notes of larger denomination, to provide relief from the unprecedented demand for small paper money. The Treasury Department announced that the issue had been decided because of the country's needs in this respect by means of silver certificates.

There is, however, $102,445,300 outstanding in United States notes of $10 denomination and higher and a portion of these will be retired and canceled, dollar for dollar, to meet the next issue of smaller denominations.

"The demand for paper currency of the smaller denominations," said the department's announcement, "has always been regarded by the treasury as an index to business conditions. For many months there has been a constantly growing demand for $1 and $2 bills, until now it is impossible to meet the country's needs in this respect by means of silver certificates."

Former Governor Hanly will speak at the First Baptist church Thursday night. Don't fail to hear this eloquent speaker.

WOMAN'S PAGE

Growing Plants in The House

Throughout the winter the housewife, if she cares to take the necessary trouble, may have compensation for the lack of her outdoor garden by growing various plants in window boxes or pots in the house. For the most part she will have to content herself with foliage, though she may be able to coax a few flowers to bloom. The following suggestions for preparations for the indoor garden and for caring for it palms, rubber plants, and cacti may later be made by specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

If an indoor window box is decided upon, a good depth for it is about 8 inches. The bottom of the box should be covered with stones and broken pottery for drainage. This should be covered with a layer of moss to prevent the soil from working down and clogging the drainage spaces. The drainage and moss should take up together about 2 inches. The greater the body of soil above the moss the more uniformly moist it may be kept. The soil should fail to fill the box by from 1 1/2 to 2 inches.

The indoor window box should be as long as the window is wide, and to get as much light as possible it should be level with the window sill. It may be placed either on brackets, a table, or legs permanently fastened to it. A hole or holes should be provided in the bottom of the box and a drip pan should be placed beneath to catch drainage water.

The top of the soil should be allowed to become dry occasionally. The results of watering should be closely observed and the supply regulated according to needs. Watering may be necessary in sunshiny weather, especially toward spring, every day or at least every other day. In cloudy and midwinter weather it will not be necessary to water more often than once a week. In general it is better to water lightly and frequently than heavily and infrequently, although just the reverse is considered best when watering is done out of doors in summer.

Only plants of the same general character should be placed in window boxes, since plants of different kinds require different treatment. Begonias are about the only plants that may be expected to flower in a window box. For the most part foliage alone must be depended upon like palms. Aspidistras require less attention than the other plants mentioned. They should be kept rather dry, sandy soil is required for each

RECIPES

BAKED CHICKEN PIE.

Purchase a nice, plump four pound chicken; singe, draw and clean the same as usual. Disjoint and cut the breast into four pieces, cut the thigh and leg apart. Put on with boiling water enough to cover and boil two hours. Add a quart of raw white potatoes, washed, pared and diced.

Take off imperfect outer leaves, wash and cut up fine or coarse as you choose; start in boiling or cold water according to your taste, cook二十 minutes, or until the potatoes are tender. Add two table-spoonfuls of onion, one and a half onions to a small head of cabbage, two table-spoonfuls of salt, one-fourth and a French dressing; mix and let stand till cool. Add extra vinegar if you find after it is mixed that you need to make it a bit more positive of flavor.

COLD WATER AND BOIL THREE MINUTES. Pour into baking dish, which has been lined with dough, cover with dough, brush the top with a little cold milk and bake twenty minutes in a moderate oven.

CRUST.—Sift two cupfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a teaspoonful of salt into bowl, add a tablespoonful of lard and rub in lightly. Add just enough cold water to hold together. Roll out on floured board and line bottom of dish with half, then cover the pie with the other half.

THE CELERY CABBAGE

Comparatively new is the celery cabbage, and very delicious, is the consensus of opinion. Many persons have become enthusiastic about it, both growers and consumers. They claim that dishes as good as ice cream can be made of it; that the stems can be used like asparagus; that it can be used in oyster stews, and is better than oysters; that it makes a better salad than head lettuce, is fine in vegetable soup—in short, that it is the wonder of the age in the vegetable world.

Even more marvelous than any of these attributes is the fact that, unlike its father, the cabbage, it can be cooked in the house without everybody knowing it, especially if the upper tips of the green outer leaves are removed. These leaves have usually been removed from those we buy at present, so the caution is not needed.

soda dissolved in the cream, then the flour. Mix in fruit and spices at the last. Turn into buttered and powdered tin and bake in moderate oven. Makes one medium-sized cake.

BUTTER MILK USES IN COOKING

With the increasing use of butter milk by doctor's orders, there has come back, in some measure, the practice of using it in cooking. This is fortunate for the taste as well as for the health. No cakes are more delicate than those prepared with butter milk. Use one and one-half more butter milk than the meal or flour. Mix thoroughly and when smooth add a salt spoon full of soda or more if a large quantity of cakes are to be made. Cakes can be made in this way of graham or white flour, buckwheat or rye meal, and all are delicious. There are just two secrets about the uses of butter milk in making cakes. The first is, always use enameled ware for the mixing as the acid of the butter milk easily affects metal. The second is, be careful only to use just enough soda to offset the acid.

A NEW FRUIT PUNCH

A very pretty fruit punch has for its foundation grape juice. Take a large enameled ware bowl, or even enameled milk pail, mix the grape juice with one-third water, then add a little lemon, not more than the juice of one lemon to two bottles of grape juice. Put into this any fruit available. Slices of pineapple are good, whole berries look well and oddly enough thin strips of cucumber cut the long way of the vegetables are an improvement. Use sugar to taste. Set the pan away on the ice and just before serving add a couple of bottles of club soda or any plain carbonated water. This gives a sparkle to the punch which is much enjoyed. The use of enameled ware is necessary here to obviate the danger of action of the fruit acid upon metal such as other kitchen wares are made of.

DATE STRIPS.

One cup brown sugar, one scant cup shortening, one-half teaspoon salt, three-fourths cup sour milk or buttermilk, three-fourths teaspoon baking soda, two cups raw rolled oats, flour enough to roll out. Cream sugar and shortening, add salt, then sour milk, to which has been added the baking soda. Stir in oats, then flour. Press the dough into a roll and cut into fourths to facilitate handling. Roll out one-fourth to cover one-half shallow cookie tin, then another fourth for other half, pressing adjoining edges together. Spread on date mixture and cover similarly with remaining dough. Bake in hot oven. Cut in strips to serve. As breakfast dish, these strips afford both fruit and cereal.

HAM SAUCE.

When a ham is nearly all used pick the small quantity of meat still remaining from the bone, scrape away uneatable parts and trim off any rusty parts from the meats. Chop the bone very small and beat the meat almost into a paste. Put the broken bone and meat together over a slow fire in a saucepan, pouring over them a gill of broth, and stir for about a quarter of an hour. Add a few sweet herbs, a seasoning of pepper and a half pint of beef stock. Stir very gently till well flavored with the herbs and strain. A little of this added to any gravy is a distinct improvement.

DATE PUDDING.

One-half cupful of sugar, two eggs beaten well, one cupful of dates, one cupful of chopped nuts, two tablespoonfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and a pinch of salt.

Mix ingredients in the order given. Spread about three-fourths of an inch thick on a tin, and bake about half an hour in a moderate oven. Cut in squares, and serve with whipped cream. This recipe may be baked in muffin tins, and will make twelve portions.

STUFFED BRISKET OF LAMB.

Wipe off the brisket, make an opening and fill with dressing; dust all over with salt and pepper. Place sliced carrot and onion in baking pan; put in the meat and pour over it melted butter or lard. Add enough hot water or soup to cover the bottom of the pan. Roast about one hour, basting frequently. When tender, remove meat and allow liquor to boil down. Thicken this for gravy, and serve with the meat.

NEUFCHATEL CHEESE BALLS.

Mix one Neufchateau cheese with a little cold milk, one-quarter teaspoonful of salt, dash of white pepper and a dash of paprika; mix and roll into balls. Roll in finely chopped parsley or paprika. This amount makes eight or ten balls. Serve on crackers on the side of salad plate or on cheese and cracker plate.

BAKED HAM.

Cut slices of ham about three-fourths inch thick. Take one cupful of brown sugar and add to this one tablespoonful of mustard. Spread this mixture on each side of the ham, place in a baking pan, the bottom of which is covered with water. Bake until tender.

DELICIOUS ICING.

Four tablespoons honey, white of one egg, lemon or chocolate flavor. Cook honey until ball is formed when dropped in cold water. Pour into the beaten white of the egg and whip till cool. Flavor.

DATE STRIPS.

One pound dates one cup water, one-half cup granulated sugar. Cut dates in half, removing seeds, add sugar and water. Cook slowly until thick enough to spread. Cool.

GERMAN ALMOND BARS

One half cup best butter, one cup powdered sugar, four eggs, one teaspoon almond extract, two cups sifted pastry flour, one teaspoon baking powder.

Serve Trays

A new wrinkle, and a very practical one, is the custom of serving individual trays at teas, receptions, and all occasions at which light refreshments are in order. These trays, very dainty affairs, are large enough to hold a plate and coffee cup, and small enough to rest very comfortably in the lap.

At a fashionable wedding reception recently a two course luncheon of salad, sandwiches and coffee followed by ices and cakes was served in this manner. The servants are well pleased with the arrangement and for the guests it is decidedly pleasant, and far easier than balancing a precariously loaded plate in the lap.

The trays may be purchased for ten cents each, and are quite attractive little things. In cities they may be rented from queensware

Telephone Comfort

Everything is right at hand in the telephone table, which combines not only a table with attached seat, but a device for the telephone numbers that saves time and annoyance. The center of the table is glass topped, with space enough to hold at least fifty names, which will probably include the bulk of your business and social acquaintances to whom you frequently telephone. There is room for their street address as well. A willow telephone device has two shelves to its table, and a cosy chair that would induce one to use this modern method of communication during the best part of the day.

Bewitching Bargain Sales

(By Emma Gary Wallace)

There really is something wonderfully fascinating about a real bargain sale to the average woman. It is such a satisfaction to know that we have obtained ample value for the money spent, and we take it for our linen supplies once a year. There is little use, however, of going out to shop unless we know whether it is every-day tablecloths, large dinner napkins, luncheon sets, pillow cases, or sheets that are needed and the only way to find out to go over our supplies systematically in advance, taking stock of what we have and of what we would like to have.

Perhaps we may decide to take a couple of the reserve supply tablecloths and to use them for every-day, while we purchase something better than these for company use. We cannot shop to good purpose unless we are prepared to buy with intelligence.

Before starting on the after-holiday buying campaign for which we have waited and planned, it is a good idea to go over the spring sewing for which we must arrange; to determine what rooms will require re-furnishing at the time of the spring housecleaning; to examine our stock of curtains and dishes; and even to look ahead to another winter season so that we may fit what we buy into what we have in such a way as to give us the most in the way of quality and service.

It may seem wise to assemble the best from a couple of rooms in one room and to re-furnish an entire room, or to add one nice piece of furniture to the supply we already have, but whatever we do, let it be the result of due consideration rather than haphazard, ill-advised, impulsive spending of money for things which will disappoint us later on.

Liberal Lines in Coats

The latest arrivals in coats have cuffs, a convertible collar, and patch pockets, to which we are accustomed, of early models, either as to length or width. They give the same impression of luxurious warmth and substantial comfort. Some of them achieve original touches in detail of construction and trimming and succeed in presenting something new in a world of varied coats.

A fine combination of cloth and fur, shown at the left, is cut on lines that are almost straight, with a hint of definition at the waistline. A little fullness in the body is laid in plaits that disappear in a piping set in at the front. Silk cord and pony skin distinguish this model by way of decoration. The pony skin is trimmed into points along the edge and forms a deep border at the bottom of the coat. The same idea appears in the collar which is almost covered by the pony skin, and in cuffs made entirely of it. Both coats are long and the back which extend from a square yoke to the top of the sleeves. Wide trousers are plain as can be and nothing is allowed to divide the attention, which is centered on the general excellence of this design.

PARSONAGE

(Copyright, by the Bobbs-Merrill Company, N.Y.)

CHAPTER IX.

Father Starr Reads the Signs.

And in the meanwhile, at the parsonage, Fairy was patiently getting breakfast. "Prudence went out for an early bicycle ride, so the members wouldn't catch her," she explained to the family. "And she isn't back yet. She'll probably stay out until afternoon, and then ride right by the grocery store where the Ladies have their Saturday sale. That's Prudence, all over. Oh, father, I did forget your eggs again, I am afraid they are too hard. Here, twins, you carry in the oatmeal, and we will eat. No use to wait for Prudence, it would be like waiting for the next comet."

Indeed, it was nearly noon when a small, one-horse spring wagon drove into the parsonage yard. Mr. Starr was in his study with a book, but he heard a piercing shriek from Connie, and a shrill "Prudence!" from one of the twins. He was downstairs in three leaps, and rushing wildly out to the little rickety wagon. And there was Prudence!

"Don't be frightened, father. I've just sprained my ankle, and it doesn't hurt hardly any. But the bicycle is broken, and we'll have to pay for it. You can use my own money in the bank. Poor Mr. Davis had to walk all the way to town, because there wasn't any room for him in the wagon with me lying down like this. Will you carry me in?"

Connie's single bed was hastily brought downstairs, and Prudence deposited upon it. "There's no use to put me upstairs," she assured them. "I won't stay there, I want to be down here where I can boss the girls."

The doctor came in, and bandaged the swollen purple ankle. Then they had dinner—they tried to remember to call it luncheon, but never succeeded! After that, the whole parsonage family grouped about the little single bed in the cheery sitting room.

"Whose coat is this, Prudence?" asked Connie.

"And where in the world did you get these towels and silk shirts?" added Fairy.

Prudence blushed most exquisitely. "They are Mr. Harmer's," she said, and glanced nervously at her father. "Whose?" chorused the family.

"If you will sit down and keep still, I will tell you all about it. But you must not interrupt me. What time is it, Fairy?"

"Two o'clock."

"Oh, two. Then I have plenty of time," and in her own frank way, she told the story.

"Then Mr. Davis came along with his cart," she concluded, "and Jerry—Harmer, you know, helped put me in, and the cart was so small they both had to walk."

"Where is he now?" "Is he young?" "Is he handsome?" "Did he look rich?"

"Don't be silly, girls. He went to the hotel, I suppose. Anyhow, he left us as soon as we reached town. He said he was in a hurry, and had something to look after. His coat was underneath me in the wagon, and he wouldn't take it out for fear of hurting."

A BRONCHIAL
HARD COLD

Yields to the Tonic Influence of Vinol.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"Last Fall I was troubled with a very severe bronchial cold, headaches, backache, and sick to my stomach. I was so bad I became alarmed and tried several medicines, also a doctor, but did not get any relief. A friend asked me to try Vinol, and it brought the relief which I craved, so now I am enjoying perfect health"—Jack C. Singleton.

The reason that cough syrups fail in such cases is because they are palliative only, while Vinol removes the cause, being a constitutional remedy in which are combined beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptones and glycerophosphates. It strengthens and revitalizes the entire system and assists nature to expel the disease.

ing my ankle, so the poor soul is probably wandering around this town in his shirt sleeves."

Already, in the eyes of the girls, this Jerry—er—Harmer, had taken unto himself all the interest of the affair.

"He'll have to come for his coat," said Lark. "We're bound to see him."

"Where does he live? What was he doing in the hickory grove?" inquired Mr. Starr with a strangely sinking heart, for her eyes were alight with new and wonderful radiance.

"He lives in Des Moines. He was just walking into town, and took a short cut through the grove."

"Walking! From Des Moines?"

Prudence flushed uncomfortably. "I didn't think of that," she said. "But I do not see why he should not walk if he likes. He's strong and athletic, and fond of exercise. I guess he's plenty able to walk if he wants to. I'm sure he's no tramp, father, if that is what you are thinking."

"I am not thinking anything of the kind, Prudence," he said with dignity. "But I do think it rather strange that a young man should set out to walk from Des Moines to Mount Mark. And why should he be at so early in the morning? Doesn't he require sleep, as the rest of us do?"

"How should I know? I guess if he likes to be out in the morning when it is fresh and sweet, it is all right. I like the morning myself. He had as much right out early as I had. His clothes were nice, and he is a Harvard graduate, and his shoes were dusty, but not soiled or worn. Anyhow, he is coming at four o'clock. If you want to ask if he is a tramp, you can do it." And Prudence burst into tears.

Dramatic silence in the cheerful sitting room! Then Fairy began bustling about to bathe the face and throat of "poor little Prudence," and her father said sympathetically:

"You're all nervous and wrought up, with the pain and excitement, Prudence. I'm glad he is coming so we can thank him for his kindness. It was mighty lucky he happened along, wasn't it? A Harvard graduate! Yes, they are pretty strong on athletics at Harvard. You'd better straighten this room a little and have things looking nice when he gets here," said Father Starr, with great diplomacy. And he was rewarded, and startled, by observing that Prudence brightened wonderfully at his words.

"Yes, do," she urged eagerly. "Get some of the roses from the corner bush, and put them on the table there. And when you go upstairs, Fairy, you'd better bring down that little lace spread in the bottom drawer of our dresser. It'll look very nice on this bed. Work hard, girls, and get everything looking fine. He'll be here at four, he said. You twins may wear your white dresses, and Connie must put on her blue and wear her blue bows. Fairy, do you think it would be all right for you to wear your silk dress? Of course, the silk is rather grand for home, but you do look so beautiful in it. Father, will you put on your black suit, or are you too busy? And don't forget to wear the pearl cuff buttons Aunt Grace sent you."

He went upstairs to obey, with despair in his heart. But to the girls, there was nothing strange in this exactness on the part of Prudence. Jerrold Harmer was the hero of the romance, and they must unite to do him honor. He was probably a prince in disguise. Jerrold Harmer was a perfectly thrilling name. It was really a shame that America allows no titles—Lord Jerrold did sound so noble, and Lady Prudence was very effective, too. He and Prudence were married, and had a family of four children, named for the various Starrs, before one hour had passed.

"I'll begin my book right away," Lark was saying. She and Carol were in the dining room madly polishing their Sunday shoes, what time they were not performing the marriage ceremony of their sister and the hero. "Yes, do! But for goodness' sake, don't run her into a mule! Seems to me even Prudence could have done better than that."

"I'll have his automobile break down in the middle of the road, and Prudence can run into it. The carburetor came off, and of course the car wouldn't run an inch without it."

"Yes, that's good," said Carol approvingly. "It must be a sixty-cylinder, eight horse power—er—tonneau or something real big and costly."

"Twins! You won't be ready," warned Prudence, and this dire possibility sent them flying upstairs in a panic.

While the girls, bubbling over with excitement, were dressing for the great event, Mr. Starr went downstairs to sit with Prudence. Carol called to him on his way down, and he paused on the staircase, looking up at her.

"Lark and I are going to use some of Fairy's powder, father," she said. "We feel that we simply must on an occasion like this. And for goodness' sake, don't mention it before him! It doesn't happen very often, you know, but today we simply must. Now, don't you say anything about falling in the flour barrel, or turning pale all of a sudden, whatever else you do. We'd be so mortified, father."

Mr. Starr was concerned with weightier matters, and went on down. Prudence with never so much as a reproving shake of the head for the worldly-minded young twins.

"Father," began Prudence, her eyes on the lace coverlet, "do you think it would be all right for me to wear that silk dressing gown of mother's? I need something over my nightgown, and my old flannel kimono is so ugly. You know, mother said I was to have it, and—I'm twenty now. Do you think it would be all right? But if you do not want me to wear it—"

"I do want you to," was the prompt reply. "Yes, it is quite time you were wearing it. I'll get it out of the trunk myself, and send Fairy down to help you." Then as he turned toward the door, he asked carelessly, "Is he very good-looking, Prudence?"

And Prudence, with a crimson face, quickly, "Oh, I really didn't notice, father."

He went on upstairs then, and presently Fairy came down with the dainty silk gown trimmed with fine soft lace. "I brought my lavender ribbon for your hair, Prudence. It will match the gown so nicely. Oh, you do look sweet, dearest. I pity Jerrold Harmer, I can tell you that. Now I must hurry and finish my own dressing."

But with her foot on the bottom stair, she paused. Her sister was calling after her. "Send father down here, quick, Fairy."

Father ran down quickly, and Prudence, catching hold of his hands, whispered wretchedly, "Oh, father, he—he is good-looking. I—I did notice it. I didn't really mean to lie to you."

"There, now, Prudence," he said, kissing her tenderly, "you mustn't get excited again. I'm afraid you are too nervous to have callers. You must lie very quietly until he comes. That was no lie, child. You are so upset you do not know what you are saying today. Be quiet now, Prudence, it's nearly time for him to come."

"You are a dear good father," she cried, kissing his hands passionately, "but it was a lie. I did know what I was saying. I did it on purpose."

And Mr. Starr's heart was heavy, for he knew that his fears were realized.

COMMISSION MEN IN SESSION

Car Shortage One of Subjects at National Convention.

Philadelphia, Jan. 11.—Nearly every large city in the country was represented at the twenty-fifth annual convention of the National League of Commission Merchants, which opened here. Nearly 1,000 delegates were expected to attend the sessions which will continue three days.

Consideration of the proposal to establish a national marketing commission is to occupy the attention of the delegates at one of the meetings. Other topics to be discussed include "Car Shortage and What We Can Do to Prevent Them," "Regulating Cold Storage Warehouse Charges for Fraction Part of a Month" and "Rules and Regulations Regarding Heating and Handling Perishable Freight."

That Daughter May Take Last Look at Parent.

Danville, Ill., Jan. 11.—Rushing from California to the bedside of her mother, Miss Martha Rittenhouse received news on the train that her mother had died and then a wreck delayed her so long the funeral had to be held before she arrived.

When she reached here Miss Rittenhouse implored the authorities for one last look at the face of her mother, Mrs. Susan Rittenhouse, who died last week, and to gratify her wish the body was exhumed from the grave in the little cemetery at Alvin.

WINTER CARE OF EWE FLOCK

Of Great Importance in Insuring Lamb Crop in Spring—Feed Clover or Alfalfa Hay.

The winter care of the flock is important to insure a lamb crop to be harvested in the spring. Ewes in good condition need not be fed grain until about a month before lambing, when they should gradually be accustomed to it. Ewes in thin or poor condition should receive from one-fourth to one-half pound of grain daily. Corn alone is not the best grain ration. A ration of six parts corn, three parts wheat bran, and one part linseed oil cake, by weight, has proved very satisfactory. A ration of corn, oats, and bran, equal parts by weight, can also be recommended.

The sheep should receive as much clover or alfalfa hay as they will eat.

Sheep in Winter Quarters.

The amount of hay eaten can be cut down by the use of corn silage or corn stover. Two pounds of clean, sweet corn silage can be used to replace about one pound of hay. Well cured corn stover is also relished by the ewes. Ordinarily, there is little danger of the sheep eating too much of it, if the hay is fed once a day. The greatest danger of corn stover comes from making it the exclusive feed. Clean salt and water should be kept before the flock. Sheep should always have a dry, well bedded floor to lie on.—Ohio State Bulletin.

FEEDING SWINE OR VERMIN?

Coal-Tar Solution as Dip or Spray Is Recommended for Treatment—Some Other Remedies.

It has been estimated that a 150-pound hog has 92,000 drops of blood. If the hog is supporting 1,000 lice and each louse takes one drop of blood per day, what per cent of the hog's blood will be lost daily, and who will pay the bill?

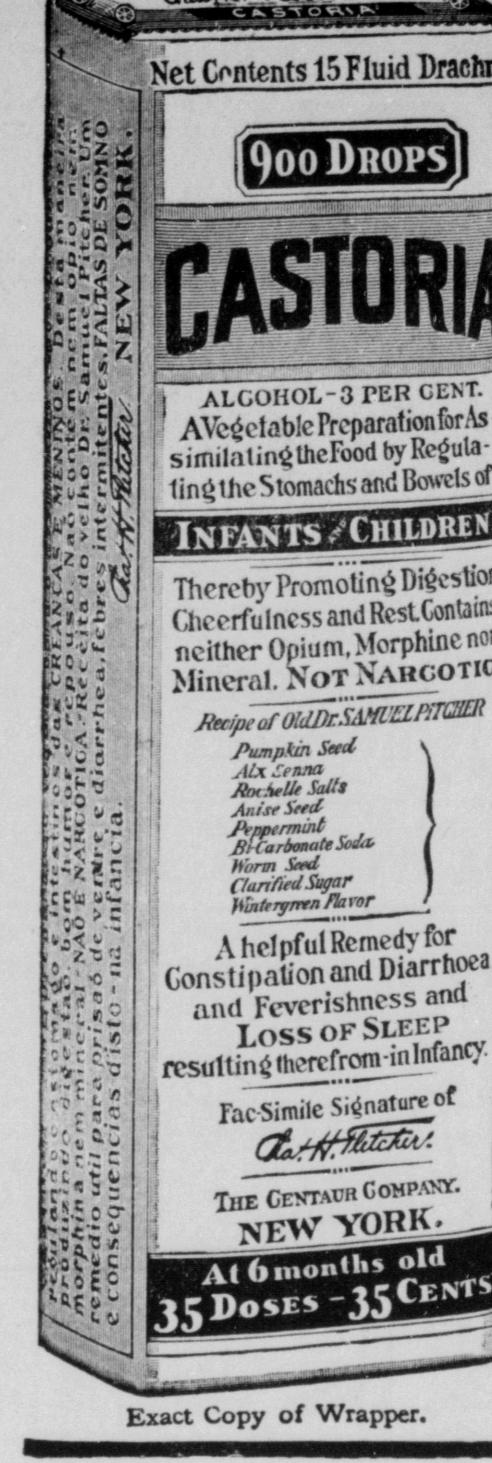

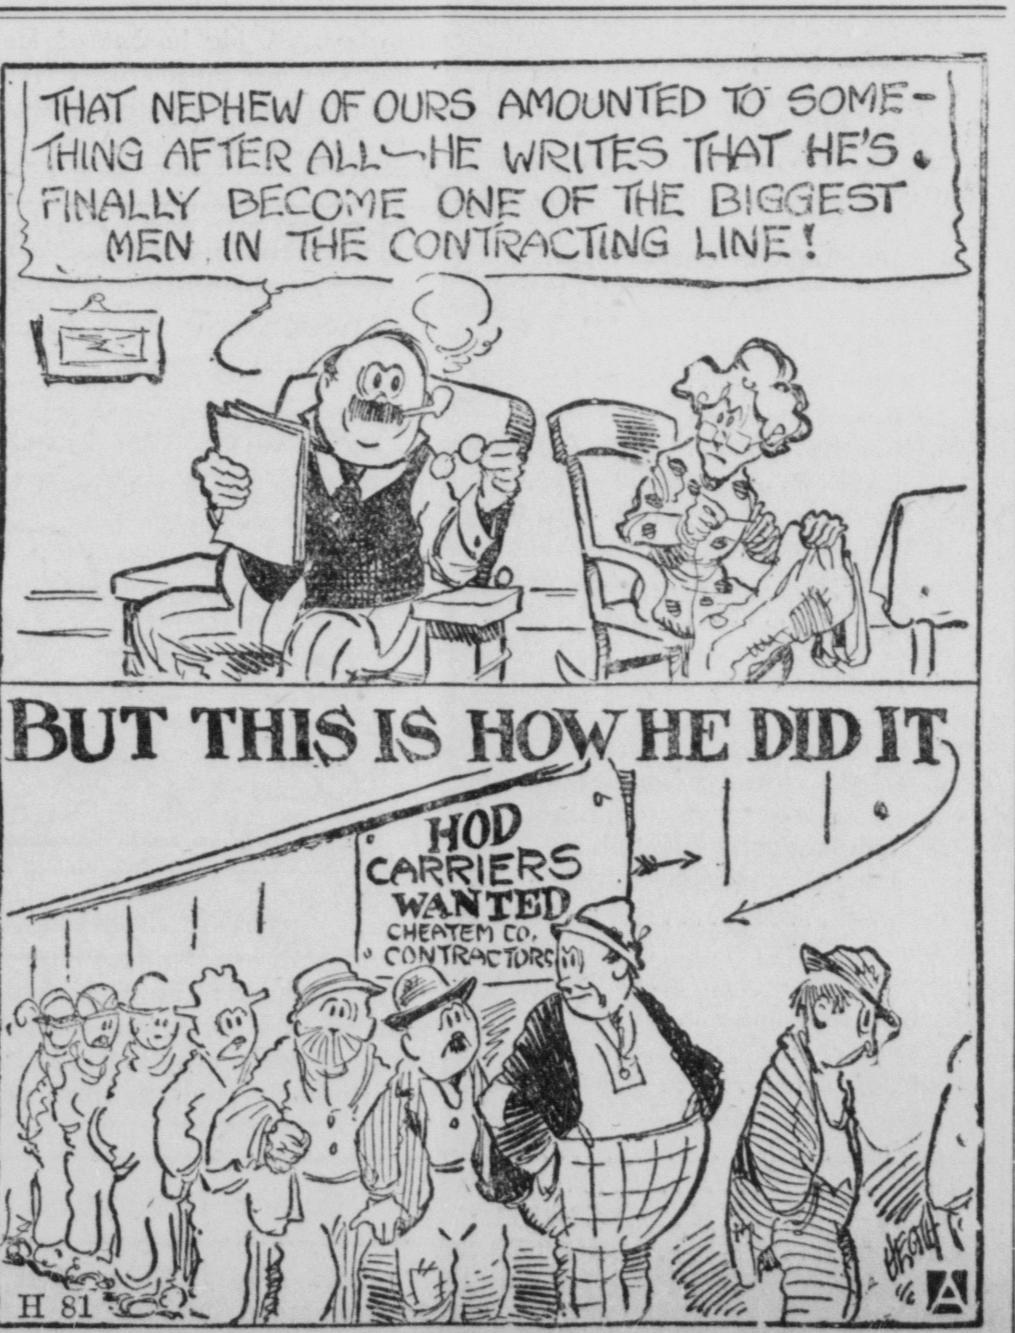

Using a coal-tar solution (1 per cent) as a dip or a spray, is recommended for treatment, but there are other mixtures equally effective. These are: 1, equal parts kerosene and machine oil mixed together and applied with an oil can, brush or swab;

The latter turns over to the stockmen, to feeders and the railroads a very large share of the profits which might have been his.

FEEDING ALFALFA TO SWINE

Some Arrangement Ought to Be Made to Prevent Hogs From Dragging Hay Around Underfoot.

In feeding alfalfa hay to hogs some arrangement must be provided to prevent them wasting the feed by dragging it around underfoot. A rack with ends boarded up solid and sides made with upright two-by-fours far enough apart for the hog to pull the hay through will prevent waste. It should be made light enough so it can be easily moved by hand to avoid having the hogs always eat at the same place. Quite a broad bottom will be necessary or the rack will get tipped over too often for the owner's serenity of mind.

Perisopic Paragraphs.

Attention Motorists.

We have been reading the Rules of the Road of the Soo Line. It contains several interesting regulations concerning the movement of traffic, and it occurred to us that some of them, slightly modified, might be of help to local motorists. Coming as they do, just at the beginning of the year, if a careful study is made of them, the drivers should have them fairly well in mind by spring. We give herewith a few:

1. Upon discovering an approaching team, the automobilist must stop offside and cover his machine with a blanket painted to correspond with the scenery.

2. The speed limit on country roads this year will be a secret, and the penalty for violation will be $10 for every mile an offender is caught going in excess of it.

3. In case an automobile makes a team run away, the penalty will be $50 for the first mile, $100 for the second, $22 for the third, etc., that the team runs; in addition to the regular damages.

4. On approaching a corner, where he cannot command a view of the road ahead, the automobilist must stop not less than 100 yards from the turn, toot his horn, ring a bell, fire a revolver, halloo, and send up three bombs at intervals of five minutes.

5. Automobiles must be seasonably painted, that is, so that they will merge with the pastoral ensemble and not be startling. They must be green in the spring, golden in summer, red in autumn, and white in winter.

Watch the next edition for the remainder of the rules.

Perils of Editing.

A Little Rock newspaper recently mixed two items, one concerning a fashionable wedding and the other about a death-defying stunt to be put on by an aeronaut, with the following result:

"Mr. and Mrs. Blank will be at home to their friends at 311 East street. All children see this wonderful sight, the man flirts with death."—Associated Advertising.

$60,000,000 worth of gum was chewed in this country last year. If a little more care was used in selecting a storage place over night, we believe this expense could be cut down considerably this year.

"In a way, the leak was a good thing."—Thomas W. Lawson.

And inasmuch as Tom admitted that he was one of those who made money on the "leak," we take it he means exactly what he says.

Here's another great economic waste that deserves the consideration of the American people. Lead pencil makers will consume 73,000,000 feet of lumber in the manufacture of pencils this year, of which it is estimated that one half is wasted in sharpening and in throwing away short ends.

General Pershing's memoirs of the Mexican punitive expedition should make interesting reading.

A demonstration of Heinz's goods will be given at Ortstadt's grocery Saturday. A big basket of Heinz's goods will be given away free at 7 o'clock Saturday night. Call at store for particulars.
